in the hands of the plasterers.

Will Bryar and wife of Kalamazoo were in Paw Paw over Sunday.

Dr. Hoyt now occupies the offices that were formerly Dr. Whalen's.

Geo. B. McOmber of Decatur was in Paw Paw Wednesday on business.

Jas. E. Chandler went to Chicago Wednesday night to spend the Fourth.

C. H. Miller of Bloomington was a caller at the NORTHERNER office, Tuesday. [2044ly]

Rev. Edward Kelley of Ann Arbor was the guest of Rev. D. Mulcahy this week.

A. C. Martin has a new 12 foot steel windmill at his place on Kalamazoo street.

M. P. Allen's building, occupied by Ocobock Bros., has been newly painted, inside and out.

David Chapman has recovered from his recent illness and is again at work in Turkey's mill.

Mr. W. J. Sellick left Wednesday for New York, whence he will sail Saturday for Liverpool.

The Rebekahs conferred the degree on a candidate at their last meeting Wednesday evening.

Misses Fay and Winifred Anderson of Hartford are visiting their cousin, Miss Nellie M. Lewis.

Prof. and Mrs. L. O. Eldredge from Alliance, O., left Thursday morning for South Haven and Chicago.

F. P. Grimes and family will spend a vacation of two weeks at South Haven, starting the 8th or 9th of July.

Misses Frances Patterson and Pauline Davis of Kalamazoo were guests of Mrs. R. W. Broughton last week.

Monday afternoon, Mrs. Hamilton chaperoned a merry crowd of young people for a picnic at Lake Park.

The ladies of the M. E. church will serve ice cream and cake to-morrow afternoon in the court house yard.

Miss Closson was in town and interviewed the board previous to her engagement as a teacher in our school.

Service, preparatory to communion, will be held at the Presbyterian church parlors on Saturday evening, at 7:30.

Dr. J. C. Maxwell arrived here Tuesday and is busy getting settled in his offices--the rooms just vacated by Dr.
Hoyt.

Judge and Mrs. Heckert started on their summer vacation last Monday evening, taking the boat at South Haven.

W. H. Longwell and Levi Hawkins attended the races at Niles last week Thursday and Friday. They saw some good sport.

A business meeting of the Disciple Y. P. S. C. E. will be held at the church Saturday evening. A full attendance is requested.

Miss Nora Dunlap will visit friends at Owosso and Mt. Clemens. She will return at an early date for the fall trade at C. R. Avery's.

A conservative estimate fixes the yield of wheat thus far harvested in southwestern Michigan at one-half of an average crop.

Mrs. Alice Colburn, who has been at Big Rapids for several months past with her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Collins, has returned home.

The ladies' aid society of the Christian church held a very pleasant social last Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. O. W. Rowland.

Mrs. E. M. Snow and Miss Mary La Mont will go to Chicago to-morrow evening. Miss LaMont will remain for quite a protracted visit.

Mrs. M. U. Richardson gave a five o'clock tea Tuesday, in honor of Miss Weeks of Battle Creek, who is the guest of Miss Christine Hudson.

Now, if you have anything that would be useful to a family of hungry children, it will be graciously taken at this office on subscription.--Van Buren Co. Visitor.

That the coming winter will be a blistering and severe one, is indicated by the large amount of beautiful batting that has just been received at the Cuming dry goods store.

Miss Cleo Stevens entertained a small number of her friends at tea Saturday night in honor of the Misses Patterson and Davis of Kalamazoo and Miss Bessie Weeks of Battle Creek.

The Paw Paw Valley Spiritual Association will hold a grove meeting at Lakeside Park, Eagle Lake, Sunday, July 14. Mrs. A. E. Sheets of Grand Ledge will be the speaker of the day.

We hear many good words said by our lady friends, especially those who are taking outings, regarding those elegant shirt waists and ready made wrappers at Sellick's. They just fill the bill.

W. H. Mason is justice of the peace once more. He has had one year's intermission after sixteen years of continuous service. The present term will make twenty years that he has served Paw Paw as justice of the peace.

The council transacted little except routine business at the meeting Monday evening. The usual bills were allowed.
Permission was granted A. C. Martin to lay a sewer pipe along Paw Paw street, between his residence and the pond.

Elder Brooks will occupy the pulpit at the Christian church next Sunday morning. He should be greeted by a full house. Let his many friends turn out and hear him. They may not have many more opportunities to listen to his friendly admonitions.

All boys and girls ranging from about 12 to 17 years, who would like to take part in a fine cantata, are requested to meet Mr. C. E. Hutchins at the opera house next Monday at four o'clock p. m.
Much valuable instruction will be given in voice culture, phrasing, pronunciation, etc.

While out driving a few evenings ago, their horse took fright and ran away, overturning the carriage and throwing Wilbur Babcock and wife onto a pile of wood, cutting and bruising them quite severely; fortunately, no bones were broken. Mrs. Babcock was injured much the worse of the two.

A draft was issued by the Savings Bank a short time since, to which the cashier inadvertently omitted to sign his name. The draft was sent to Vincinnati, deposited in bank at that city, sent to New York and passed through several banks there before the omission was discovered and the draft returned for correction.

Mrs. J. F. Buillard received a letter announcing the death of her nephew, Frank Van Sickle, at Juniata, N. B., Tuesday, June 25. He was affected by overwork in the hot sun and became insane. While in this condition, he poured kerosene over himself and his bedding, setting it afire. He was horribly burned and then fell down stairs. He died from the effects of the fall and the burns after a few hours, in great agony.

At a meeting of the board of education held last Monday evening the following named teachers were elected: Ruby J. Neville, principal; Ana G.
Closson, assistant; Herbert More, grammar school; Mattie Cooley, first intermediate. Miss Neville is a resident of Jamestown, N. Y., and is a graduate of the Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, O. Miss Closson is a resident of Lincoln, Neb., and is a graduate of Hillsdale college. Mr. More's engagement is contingent on his complying with the rule of the board requiring a second grade certificate as a qualification for the grammar school teacher. Miss Cooley is a graduate of our high school and thoroughly qualified for the position to which she has been elected. The matter of the employment of a janitor was left for future action. The board voted to adopt Butler's geographies in lieu of the Eclectic series now in the school. This change will cost the patrons of the school nothing as they can make an even exchange of their old books for new ones. Our school book dealers can also exchange the books they have on hand for an equal value of the new series.

IN TWO EVENINGS.

Grammar School Graduation and Alumni Reunion.

Following the high school commencement exercises, a full account of which was published in the NORTHERNER of last week, came the grammar school graduation and alumni reunion, completing the closing exercises of the school year.

Grammar Graduation.

The graduating exercises of the grammar department of the Paw Paw public schools were held at the opera house on Thursday evening of last week and, notwithstanding the fact that an admission fee was charged, every inch of room was occupied. The receipts amounted to almost fifty dollars.

The decorations and arrangement of the stage were elegant and the exercises were of a high order of merit from first to last.

The class consisted of twenty-two members, the largest in the history of the school. Above the stage was displayed the class motto, "Not how much, but how well," while the stands in front were laden with beautiful floral offerings and other gifts for the members of the class.

Promptly at the advertised hour, the exercises were opened with a fine instrumental duet by Zora and Mason Fish, followed by an invocation pronounced by Rev. N. C. Brundage, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Miss Kittie Showerman rendered a fine instrumental solo, followed by Miss Rheta Chapman, who acquitted herself very nicely with her recitation of "Home."

"Women as Inventors" was the subject of a very creditable and interesting essay read by Miss Viola Monroe.
The essay showed that its writer had been making diligent inquiry concerning the topic on which she had written.

"When the tide comes in," a vocal solo by Mrs. Emma Paige, was greatly appreciated by her listeners and received a round of well deserved applause.

Joseph Thorp recited the "Picket Guard" very nicely, and Miss Rae Show-erman followed with a vocal solo, "Snow Flake," which was very pleasing to the audience.

Miss Zina Waters' essay, "The Gifted Tramp," was a study of the English poet, Oliver Goldsmith, and evinced a great degree of familiarity with the life and works of that eminent writer.

Miss Christine Hudson's rendition of "The Marriage of the Flowers" was a very pleasing part of the program and evinced a large degree of talent for the stage on the part of the young lady.

"Guilty or not Guilty," a recitation by Miss Ella Hall, was well rendered, and the audience was visibly affected by the pathos of the production.

The vocal solo by Jane Broughton was a delightful production, well executed and very much appreciated by the audience.

"Calling a boy in the morning," a recitation by Mark Chaffee, was well rendered, and portrayed in a realistic manner the different effect produced by a call from mother or one from father.

The "Class History," by Miss May Tyner, was an interesting portrayal of the doings and characteristics of the class, and was finely rendered.

A violin solo by Miss Lena Packer showed a high degree of musical culture in one of her years, and was a very pleasing feature of the program.

"The Old Woman who Lives in a Shoe," by Miss Mabel Andrews, was a new version of an old topic. England was represented as the "shoe" and the writer likened the various nations that are or have been under her control to the children of the "old woman" who lived therein. One of her children, "America," had long since become of age and ceased to be the subject of parental authority.

"Bocaina," a vocal solo by Mrs. W. C.
Y. Ferguson, was finely rendered and received with applause.

Clyde Cummings' oration, "Finances of the Revolution," showed deep research and close study of early American history, and was well spoken.

The "Class Prophecy," presented by Miss Marie Ryan, predicted a pleasant future for each of her classmates.
None who knows them will wish them a less pleasant lot than that predicted by the essayist.

With a few earnest and well chosen words, Mr. J. W. Free presented each member of the class with a well-earned diploma entitling them to enter the high school, from which it may reasonably be expected that a large and intelligent class will graduate in '99.

A male quartet, Messrs. Squier, Cummings, Cooper and More, sang a beautiful song, "May Time," which so pleased the audience that the vocalists were compelled to respond to an encore.

Just here occurred a number not on the program, a presentation to Mr.
More, the teacher, of a souvenir spoon on which was a beautiful engraving of the school building. The presentation address by Miss Zina Waters was very nervous. In his response, Mr. More complimented the class upon the good work they had done.

The evening's entertainment was concluded with a beautiful operetta, entitled "Enchanted Wood," of which the following is a synopsis:

Six children leave school for a romp in the woods, and after some quarreling, separate and wander one by one, into the borders of the enchanted wood.

Here, by order of the fairy queen, they are enticed further on, until they sink down exhausted, and are thrown into a deep sleep by six fairies with poppy wands.

Mother Goose, who is a guest of the queen, requests the privilege of changing them into such characters of her own rhymes as they most resemble, and they are roused to find themselves Jack Horner, Boopie, etc.

Here they are kept at work until a searching party of boy police, sent by the distracted teacher, comes to their assistance; but the police fare little better, for, lured on by fairy voices into the presence of the queen and court, they

SEWARD & MARSHALL--MACHINISTS.

One Hundred and Nineteen Years ago yesterday the Declaration of Independence was signed and they tell us we owe the glorious Fourth to the flies from a livery stable adjoining Independence Hall.
If a pesky little thing like a fly could cause a 4th to be glorious then, nothing but American made Chinese fire crackers will do now--that is, if you don't count wet goods. So we see times constantly change, although change is scarce these times.

It may be the 4th or fifth time we have spoken to you about it, but recognizing the fallibility of the finite mind we again take the liberty of mentioning how much better it would be if that pesky machine were repaired. You know better than we do there are no flies on it when it is in good order.
When a fellow comes along and asks what's the matter, you don't want to say what isn't so, but you would rather he didn't know it was a lack of repairs.
It's a fact.

SEWARD & MARSHALL.
